

Perform First Person Narratives

Assume the character of a person from the days of the Santa Fe Trail: William Becknell, Kit Carson, Susan Shelby Magoffin, just to name a few. Or become a Native American, a Hispanic trader, a military figure or any other occupation from the days of the Trail.

Research Your Character

Ride Into History gathers the tools you will need to research who you will become. Research is essential in historical interpretation and enables you to portray accurately the person you have chosen to become.

Become a historian, researcher, scriptwriter and actor all while having fun working with others who are also taking on the persona of someone from the past!

On The Santa Fe Trail!

Determine the Story

Each character has stories to tell, and you will learn through your investigation what stories to tell and how to weave them together in an effective manner. Ride Into History will provide you the tools to tell your character's story to an audience as you become that person you are researching.
